

Thirteen Fitzsimons Companies Selected to Present at Regional Life Science Conference

AURORA, August 28, 2011 – Companies from the Colorado Science + Technology Park at Fitzsimons will comprise about half of all presenters at this year’s Rocky Mountain Life Science Investor and Partnering Conference.

Located at the Brown Palace Hotel in Downtown Denver, the event will feature 30 presenting companies. The conference is organized by the Colorado BioScience Association as the Rocky Mountain region’s premier investor and partner conference.

“The prominent presence of so many organizations from the Colorado Science + Technology Park at Fitzsimons speaks to the diversity of expertise in this life science district,” said Jim Chrisman, vice president of Forest City Fitzsimons, Inc., the development partner, with the Fitzsimons Redevelopment Authority, of the Colorado bioscience park. “Forest City and the Fitzsimons Redevelopment Authority are proud to support the region’s thriving life science community.”

The Rocky Mountain Life Science Investor and Partnering Conference will run Sept. 21-23 and include attendees across Colorado, Arizona, Montana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Utah.

“Our association spearheads the investor and partnering conference every other year for the region,” said Holli Riebel, president and chief executive officer of the Colorado BioScience Association. “This is our second event, and we have been absolutely thrilled at the response from both companies applying to present and investors desiring to attend.”

The presenting companies from the Colorado Science + Technology Park are:

1. AktiVax
2. Barofold
3. Bodesix
4. B-Siege Biotechnologies
5. Clarimedix
6. Fluonic
7. KromaTiD
8. MBCPharma, Inc.
9. Mitomics
